1. A POSSIBLE SAM SITE, LOCATED ROUGHLY TEN NM WEST OF Khabarovsk across the Amur River, appears on far oblique photography of March 1958. Military type security fence encloses installation which may be greatly modified version of a Moscow-type SAM site. Screening of recent talent coverage of Khabarovsk and Komsomolsk areas has not yet revealed other evidence of missile sites or other installations with unique air defense capabilities.

2. A new airfield in grading stage of construction located approx 4.5 NM NE of Zavtaya appears on March 1958 photography. The runway will be approx 10,000 by 250 feet
